

Swiss Diamond Watches

Contributed by admin
Saturday, 07 October 2006

It is obvious that everyone will hunger for Swiss diamond watches. You may wish for another one although you have already one because you can not seem to stop phenomenon at its craftsmanship. In fact it is true that everyone can not own to a precious diamond watch. However you can't possibly to afford it, if you need to ask how much a diamond watch is?

Chopard's watches are amazing and inviting. In fact not all of the world's most expensive watches are dripping with diamonds. But there is only one whose value is estimated at $1,130,620 and that is the Chopard Super Ice Cube watch. There is all total of 66.16 carats of diamond lined at every square centimeter of this diamond watch. It includes 1,897 brilliants, 288 trapeze cuts, and its center-case is set with 16 flawless squares. Blancpain By mastering every complication at its mechanism Blancpain remains the standard by which the art of traditional watchmaking is measured. Blancpain is the one of the world's oldest and most distinguished Swiss Watchmakers in the world class craftsman in Watch making tradition. For more than 250 years, thirteen generations of watchmakers have passed down their creativity and expertise as pure craftsmanship. As a "grande complication" this watch has almost half a dozen complications. It possesses of a perpetual calendar, a split-second chronograph, a minute repeater, a tourbillon, a moon phase minder, and about 740 separate components. Any how Diamond watches are status symbols that are the easiest to show off. If you will offer a diamond watch with complications to your lady, then they will choose the latter anytime. In fact there is no say about a diamonds watch wearer. However there is a very few people who realize that a single piece of jewelry is a diamond watch. It can be just as impressive as Harry Winston chandelier earrings. {mosgoogle left}