

Ladies Watches Unique and Classy

Contributed by admin
Sunday, 15 October 2006

Women used to wear pendant watches before wristwatches became the in thing. Pendant watches were a type of pocket watches which were put around the neck with the help of long chains. Women placed these watches into their wrist band. Small pockets inside the seam of the dress were also made for putting up these watches.

However time has changed and today women have a wide variety of watches to choose from. Watches are available in necklace style. They can also hang at their waists with the help of small chains. They can dangle from rings, earrings and brooches on blouse.

Contemporary ladies watches

The market is full of stylish and modern watches for ladies. New and trendy designs are launched every year. Women go for many types of watches.

The watches are classified into different categories and for having the basic collection you must have one watch from each of these categories: Dress watches, Jewelry watches and Sports watches. These watches are also manufactured by all the top brands in the world. However it's wise to choose these watches from different watchmakers and not from just one.{mosgoogle left}